BIOGRAPHY

Mohammed Ali Al-Ansari is a financial operations professional based in Madinah, Saudi Arabia, with more than thirteen years of experience across hospitality and multi-branch retail. He currently serves as Financial Collector for a specialty coffee company, where he is responsible for cash collection and control across multiple branches, the resolution of cashier and point-of-sale discrepancies, and camera-based monitoring of branch operations in support of fraud detection and internal control.

Prior to his current role, Mohammed spent seven years at Al-Jar Resort on Saudi Arabia's Red Sea coast, where he managed room pricing and revenue, served as night auditor, and carried out the property's daily financial close — account audits, cashier audits, cash-drawer closings, and revenue reconciliation — while also managing the reservations operation and contributing to budget preparation. His earlier career includes front-office roles at hotels in Riyadh and Madinah, including service to Hajj and Umrah delegations.

Mohammed holds a Bachelor of Business Administration from Imam Mohammad Ibn Saud Islamic University in Riyadh, awarded with a grade of Excellent and First Class Honors at a GPA of 4.83 out of 5 — a degree he completed part-time while employed full-time. He has completed professional training in project management with the Madinah Chamber of Commerce and in artificial intelligence in the workplace with the Sanabel Al-Madina Association.

An active practitioner of applied artificial intelligence, Mohammed integrates large language models into daily financial and operational work — structured reporting, reconciliation support, and workflow redesign — and advocates an approach in which AI accelerates the work while people retain the decisions and the accountability. He is bilingual in Arabic and English, and is focused on leadership roles at the intersection of financial operations, internal control, and intelligent automation.
